

Priorities

Verse One

A new dawn
The rising of this day
Infinite possibilities
At least some would say
A coffee in the morning
Gets me up from where I lay
Here's my list of things to do
To finish for today

Pre Chorus One

Paint the world a masterpiece
Discover a cure for all disease
Compose a great symphony
Save the world from ecological catastrophe

Chorus One

Or instead
I'll spend all day
Staring at the sun
Close one eye
Try to catch the light between
My finger and my thumb
Look up at the sky
And wonder why it's blue
Sometimes doing nothings
My favorite thing to do

Verse Two

I could delegate these tasks
If I were a king
But nothing done by force really means anything
Now I must prioritize
The important of these things

What should be first? What will be last?
What will this day bring?

Pre Chorus Two

I'll paint the world a masterpiece
Discover a cure for all disease
I'll compose a great symphony
Save the world from ecological catastrophe

Chorus Two

Or instead

I'll spend all day
Staring at the sun
Close one eye
Try to catch the light between
My finger and my thumb
Look up at the sky
The most important thing to do

Chorus Three

I'll spend all day
Staring at the sun
Close one eye
My finger and my thumb
Look up at the sky
